

2009-10 WYOMING COWBOY WRESTLING

North Carolina State and Oregon State Duals:

Wyoming will now take a brief break before resuming training after Christmas in preparation for their home dual match-up with the North Carolina State Wolfpack on Tues, Jan. 5, 2010 at 7 p.m. in the UniWyo Sports Complex.

Following that dual, the 'Pokes will take a quick road trip to Corvallis, Ore., to face the No. 25-ranked Oregon State Beavers on Thurs., Jan. 7 at 8 p.m.

So far this season Wyoming has a 3-1 dual record, while the Wolfpack is 2-2 and the Beavers are 8-1.

N.C. State will participate in the Southern Scuffle tournament and will dual Nebraska prior to their meeting with UW. OSU will compete in the Midlands Championships between now and then.

All-time, the Cowboys are 2-0 against North Carolina State and 6-16 against Oregon State. The last time UW wrestled N.C. State was Jan. 17, 2009 in Raleigh with a 26-16 result in favor of the Cowboys. Wyoming and Oregon State last matched up on Jan. 20, 2007 in Laramie, with the Beavers winning 32-6.

Team Tidbits: Following are several notes from UW's 2009-10 season to this point...

- Dual Dominance - In their four duals so far this season, the Cowboys have relied primarily on four individuals to fuel the team's 3-1 record. Cole Dallaserra is 3-0 at 149 pounds, Joe LeBlanc is 4-0 at 184 pounds, Michael Martinez is 4-0 at 125 pounds and Chase Smith is 3-0 at 141 pounds. LeBlanc and Martinez have scored the most team points for the 'Pokes, with 18 and 16 respectively.

- VomBaur Back to 133 - After spending the early portion of the season competing at 141 pounds, UW senior Cory VomBaur dropped back down to 133 for the Reno Tournament of Champions. He had a record of 5-2 and placed fifth. VomBaur has qualified the past three consecutive seasons for the NCAA Tournament at 133 pounds.

- Onufer Out - Cowboy sophomore and No. 12-ranked Shane Onufer (165 pounds) is nursing a nagging knee injury and missed the Stanford/Reno road trip as part of an extended break from competition. Onufer is expected to be back on the mat for the Cowboys after the first of the new year.

- Winning Big - Three Wyoming sophomores are winning often and earning big bonus points along the way. Joe LeBlanc (184 pounds) has an overall record of 22-3 with an incredible 17 bonus point margins. Nine of his wins have come by technical fall, six by way of fall and two by major decision. Michael Martinez (125) has an overall record of 20-5 with seven of those wins coming by way of major decision, two by technical fall. Shane Onufer (165) is 14-4 overall with four pins and four major decisions.

- 50 Career Wins - Five Cowboys currently on the roster have accumulated 50-plus wins in their UW careers. Senior Cory VomBaur has 72, while LeBlanc (67 wins), Onufer (58) and Martinez (58) have each eclipsed that landmark in only their second year. Junior Cole Dallaserra (53) joined the group with a victory by fall at the Las Vegas Invite.

- Wins Over Ranked Opponents - Five Cowboys have taken care of business against ranked opponents and improved their postseason chances with big wins. To this date LeBlanc has beaten four top-20 opponents, including No. 3 Mike Pucillo from Ohio State. Martinez has beaten three top-20 foes, the highest ranked of which was No. 5 James Nicholson of Old Dominion. Onufer has knocked off No. 6 Andy Rendos from Bucknell twice and just this last weekend in Reno Cole Dallaserra pinned No. 20 Nick Stable of North Carolina, while L.J. Helbig beat No. 10 Tyler Sorenson from South Dakota State.

Cowboys In The Rankings: There are several national organizations that send out weekly and preseason collegiate wrestling rankings, most notably the InterMat poll and the National Wrestling Coaches Association team poll. All rankings are generally released by Tuesday each week.

As of Dec. 15 there are three 'Pokes in the top-10 of their respective weight classes.

Returning All-American Joe LeBlanc (184 lbs) is listed in the latest InterMat individual rankings at No. 5. He is also No. 6 by W.I.N. Magazine and No. 7 by D1CollegeWrestling.net.

Michael Martinez rose to No. 8 at 125 pounds by W.I.N., No. 8 by InterMat and No. 10 by D1CW.

Shane Onufer (165 lbs) leapt up the charts after the Las Vegas Invite and is now No. 9 in the W.I.N. rankings, No. 12 according to InterMat and is ranked No. 14 by D1CW.

After an impressive East Coast road trip last month that included winning the Body Bar Classic, Chase Smith has maintained a ranking at 141 pounds, coming in at No. 20 by W.I.N.

As a team, the 'Pokes are positioned at No. 23 on W.I.N.'s DI power index. The UW squad is also listed as "Receiving Votes" in the NWCA poll.

Stanford Dual: Facing an improved Stanford team on Friday night on the road, the University of Wyoming wrestling team showed up with a big effort and walked away holding a 25-9 dual victory.

Wyoming improves to 3-1 in dual matches this season, while Stanford drops to 5-2. The Cowboys are now 5-0 all-time versus the Cardinal.

The dual was a good measuring stick for the 'Pokes since Stanford had beaten fellow Western Wrestling Conference member, and reigning league champion Northern Iowa earlier this season by a score of 19-12.

* Some wrestlers listed at multiple potential weights

Stanford cont'd... UW got a major decision victory from sophomore Chase Smith at 141 pounds to begin the match and never looked back. Earning decisions for the 'Pokes were sophomores Alfonso Hernandez at 197 pounds, Joe LeBlanc (184), Michael Martinez (125) and Brock Smith (174). Juniors Cole Dallaserra (149) and Matthew McLaughlin (Hwt.) also got wins for the Cowboy team.

"I am proud of our effort tonight," UW head coach Mark Branch said. "This was a dual that concerned us, following up finals week and against a much-improved team. I think that ultimately our advantage was that we have already seen a lot of tough competition this year and this dual did not faze our guys. We had watched film in preparation for Stanford and focused on keeping pressure on their guys. I saw improvement in that area, it made a difference and was good to see.

"With Shane (Onufer) out, Ernie (Alex Rieder) was asked to cut some weight over the last two weeks and make 165 pounds for this dual. Even though he lost tonight, his effort was incredible and he really sacrificed for the good of the team. Brock's (Smith) win was a big swing for us and certainly a turning point. After having some struggles early on in his match, he really fought back, stayed tough and pulled out an important win."

The evening began at 141 pounds where UW got a dominant 12-2 major decision from Chase Smith. That win would prove to be the only bonus-point victory for Wyoming, but did set the pace for the rest of the team. Dallaserra then earned a workmanlike 6-3 decision in the Cowboys' favor at 149 pounds to put the team score at 7-0.

Next, Stanford won two straight, Lucas Espericueta over Mikah Kadera, 7-2 at 157 pounds, and No. 16 Nick Amuchastegui by a slim margin over Alex Rieder, 8-6 at the 165 pound weight class. That brought the team score to 7-6 in favor of the 'Pokes.

The Cowboys then won five straight to leave no doubt and put the dual out of reach. That run started with a comeback victory for Brock Smith at 174 pounds. With the score tied 4-4 late in the third period and down over a minute in riding time to Stanford's Jake Johnson, Smith dug in his spurs and got a two-point takedown on the edge of the mat with 10 seconds remaining. Smith would win 6-5 despite Johnson tacking on the riding time point.

In the marquee match-up of the night, No. 5-ranked LeBlanc out-muscled No. 13 Zack Geisen at 184 pounds and won handily, 8-1. LeBlanc narrowly missed out on an eight-point major decision which would have earned UW an additional team bonus point, however he did rack up over four minutes of riding time and kept the pressure on Geisen the entire match.

Following suit for the Cowboys was Hernandez at 197 pounds with a solid 7-1 decision and McLaughlin, who won by injury default at heavyweight. McLaughlin was leading 2-1 after two periods, with a riding time advantage, in his match when Dylan Rush was forced to bow out with a shoulder injury sustained from twice being slammed to the mat by Wyoming's big man.

No. 8-ranked Martinez out-last-ed a formidable opponent in Ryan Mango at 125 pounds, scoring two third period takedowns to win 8-4.

The Cardinal did pick up another win at 133 pounds, when Justin Paulsen beat Kasey Garnhart 10-3, but ultimately that bout played little role in the final team tally of 25-9 in favor of the Cowboys.

Reno Tournament: The Wyoming Cowboy wrestling team won some tough matches on Sunday at the Reno Tournament of Champions, but also dropped a few difficult decisions and left the annual event with plenty to chew on as they prepare to begin the dual portion of their schedule after the first of the new year.

Wyoming had six place-winners on the day, recording a third place finish by sophomore Joe LeBlanc, two fourth place showings from sophomore Michael Martinez and senior Cory VomBaur, two fifth place winners in redshirt freshman Kasey Garnhart and sophomore Brock Smith, as well as one sixth place honor by sophomore Alfonso Hernandez.

As a team, the Pokes placed seventh of 25 teams with a total of 69.5 points. Each team could enter 13 wrestlers in the competition, but only one competitor at each weight class (10) counted towards the team score. No. 4-ranked Oklahoma State ran away with the team title by scoring 154 points, 68.5 ahead of second place Edinboro (85.5). No. 14 Penn State was third (83), No. 21 Arizona State and Ohio tied for fourth (77), No. 19 Cal Poly (70.5) and then Wyoming. The Cowboys did finish ahead of No. 8-ranked Boise State, who placed eighth with 57 points.

"We got good efforts from Kasey (Garnhart), Brock (Smith) and Cory (VomBaur), but overall I thought we wrestled at a level that we had previously surpassed," Cowboy second-year head coach Mark Branch stated. "I was disappointed in our lack of mental toughness. As a team we need to get healthy over the break, come back with a better, tougher attitude and be ready to wrestle with our emotions."

As has become a good habit, Wyoming's No. 5-ranked LeBlanc stormed through the 184-pound bracket with two wins by fall, two technical falls and a major decision victory over No. 14-ranked David Erwin from Penn State in the consolation finals, 16-8. However, that was not the finals match LeBlanc had in mind, having slipped up and lost to Nick Purdue from Ohio, 8-6 in the semifinals and sending UW's All-American to a bitter-sweet third place finish. After going 5-1 in Reno, he now has a team-best season record of 21-3, with 17 of those wins by bonus-point margin of eight points or more.

At 125 pounds, No. 8-ranked Martinez was 5-2, placed fourth and along the way beat No. 10-ranked Brad Pataky of Penn State, 4-3. However, UW's lightweight could not figure out No. 12-ranked Chris Notte from Oklahoma State and lost twice to the OSU senior.

The Cowboys' other fourth place finish came from VomBaur at 133 pounds in the first time he has wrestled down at the weight this season. He was a solid 5-2 and had to fight his way through the back draw after losing his opening round match. Garnhart also placed at 133, coming in at fifth with a 4-2 record.

Both VomBaur and Garnhart beat the event's No. 3-seed Ben Ashmore of Arizona State and the No. 5-seed Quentin Keyes from Ohio, but lost to Colin Johnston of West Virginia, with VomBaur twice on the losing end to Johnston.

Smith's 5-2 record and fifth place finish at 174 pounds included a technical fall and two major decision victories, one of which was a 16-3 win over Stanford's Jake Johnson, whom Smith had narrowly beaten by one point on a last second takedown in the team's dual two days earlier. He beat the No. 3-seed Eric Starks from Arizona State by a score of 7-4 in his final match on Sunday.

The final place-winner for UW was Hernandez at 197 pounds. He was 4-3 and made a good run through the consolation bracket before dropping a 3-1 sudden victory decision to Ryan Smith from Cal Poly in the fifth/sixth place match.

Not placing, but also getting big wins for the Cowboys on Sunday were junior Cole Dallaserra at 149 pounds and redshirt freshman Lee Helbig at 197 pounds. Dallaserra pinned No. 20-ranked Nick Stabile of North Carolina in the opening round, while Helbig beat No. 10-ranked Tyler Sorenson from South Dakota State, 6-5.

WWC Wrestler of the Week: University of Wyoming sophomore 165-pounder Shane Onufer (Auburn, Wash./Auburn HS) was named the Western Wrestling Conference Wrestler of the Week on Tuesday, Dec. 8 by league officials.

In what many consider the top early tournament in collegiate wrestling, Onufer placed third at 165 pounds at the 28th Annual Las Vegas Invitational, Dec. 4-5. In doing so, he beat All-American Andy Rendos from Bucknell twice.

Onufer finished the tournament with a 5-1 record, 14-4 so far this year, and helped the Wyoming team to a 10th-place finish in the stacked field.

With his success in Las Vegas, Onufer has jumped to No. 12 at 165 pounds in Intermat's weekly poll.

On Friday of the event, Onufer opened with a major decision victory over Cody Hutcheson from Cornell. He then beat P.J. Gillespie from Hofstra (4-1), setting up a quarterfinal bout with No. 6-ranked and the event's No. 2-seed Rendos. Onufer knocked off Rendos by a score of 5-3 to advance to Saturday's semifinals.

He then lost by a slim margin in the semifinals to No. 8 Colt Sponseller from Ohio State (6-4), before winning two straight to finish the tournament. He beat Gillespie again by a score of 3-2, before getting his second victory in as many days over 2009 All-American Rendos in the consolation final. Onufer was aggressive from the start and stuck Rendos' shoulders to the mat at 2:15 in the first period to bring his weekend to an exciting end.

The weekly award is the second this season for Wyoming, Michael Martinez won on Nov. 17, and the second of Onufer's career.

The Western Wrestling Conference is comprised of seven schools including the Air Force Academy, North Dakota State, Northern Colorado, Northern Iowa, South Dakota State, Utah Valley and Wyoming.
